

Planners Get Hamilton Ave. Problem To Study

Width of a dividing strip on Hamilton avenue when widened in the feeding area for the Route 5 freeway will be one of the factors to be decided by the planning commission and the city council before the streets and highways plan gets final approval of the city council, according to action last Monday when the council sent the plans back to the planners for review. As presented, Hamilton avenue was to have 120 foot width but the council indicated 90 foot might be sufficient in that this would comply with state highway agreement.

The 120 foot width would serve six lanes of traffic and allow a planted area as a divider. Councilmen raised the point as to validity of singling out width of a specific street. Mayor Richard Morton indicated too, that the results of the traffic survey tomorrow may indicate potential need. So far as dogs are concerned, the city signed an agreement with the Public Health department of the county and had the clerk advise that the department could accept calls from either the city or from private citizens here.

The council re-classified the position of the assistant city clerk to the pay rating of Junior stenographer Clerk by the County, a change of from $200 to $218 per month. Council also voted to raise the pay of the city clerk from $300 to $350 per month, but not until Mayor Richard Morton had stated this matter should have been considered before the filing date for candidates had closed in case someone else interested in the position because of the increase in salary, might have filed. It was pointed out that unless this action is taken before the start of a new term, the law does not allow for any change in salary scale for another four year period. Councilmen Jensen, Gomes and Dahl voted for the increase while Mayor Morton voted "no".

A hearing was set for April 26 on the resolution for R-2 zoning instead of R-1 on the Ralph Weaver properties in Hamilton Square. Action was deferred on rezoning the William Henley property from R-2 to R-3 on Winchester Road, so that legal papers may be drawn.

Certificates of appreciation are to be issued by the city for traffic survey workers. Councilmen Gomes and Arends may attend the civilian defense meeting next Tuesday when Governor Val Peterson, national head of the department will be present.

Council voted William H. Morgan and Fred Jones Jr. as regular firemen, having passed probationary period.

Monday was the last meeting of the weekly schedule for the Council. Hereafter, meetings will be held every other Monday.

Campbell Prepares For Traffic Survey Friday

Everything is in readiness for the traffic survey which is to get under way in Campbell at six o'clock tomorrow morning and carry on to ten o'clock in the evening. It is sponsored by the city council and planning commission and has the complete cooperation of all civic organizations. The Campbell high school will provide 250 students and teachers at the six checking stations, while the three service clubs will conduct the parking area survey. The students are from the history and the driver education classes.

All of this is expected to provide information toward the master plan as to the extent of area needed here for business usage and which of the streets are of major importance to warrant improvement priorities.

In a trial survey conducted by the high school it was found that at one of the checking stations on Winchester road seventeen cars passed per minute or 1020 per hour, and that the traffic flow was about the same in each direction, and that traffic on Campbell avenue was about twice that on Hamilton avenue. This was a trial check and has no bearing on tomorrow's survey.

In the survey tomorrow, motorists are to be stopped twice enroute through Campbell. The checking stations will be at: 1—Winchester and Rosemary Aves. 2—Central and Hamilton Aves. 3—Hamilton Avenue west of San Tomas Road. 4—Campbell and Union avenues. 5—Campbell avenue in front of Grammar School, and 6—Winchester and Budd Aves.

Questions to be asked in the 10 second interview with motorists will be origin and destination, purpose of trip for pleasure, business or to work. Data so obtained will supplement information from other surveys so as to ascertain potential trading area. According to Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, income areas have already been appraised and their purchasing power ascertained. The new survey will supplement this and make possible a report of specific concern to the businessmen, educators, industrialists and others concerned with the future growth and prosperity of Campbell, according to Barrett.

The survey of the parking area seeks to define the trading area and the pattern for downtown parking. It will be concerned with how long a car is parked down town and where the cars come from.

All data gathered tomorrow will be charted and transferred to punch cards then machine tabulated. The conclusions will help determine if present streets are wide enough and if adequate to serve impact from Route 5 Freeway when completed.

Homer Hyde is general chairman of the survey committee.

EDITORIAL

HOME TOWN ENTERPRISE

One of the important functions of the Chamber of Commerce is to foster and protect home town enterprise. The firm doing business in a community pays a business tax, maintains a payroll, pays a city and county tax, gives to many worthwhile local non-profit enterprises. He maintains residence in the community and sends children to schools and churches. The Chamber of Commerce has him in mind as one of its most substantial backers and, likely as not, he reacts in that way.

The Campbell Chamber of Commerce, now in the process of reorganization, has an ambitious program worthy of consideration. An active body in this field can do wonders toward civic progress. They vigorously seek new members. They will originate a program to attract light industry, wholesalers and more home owners. They will study the field of potential annexation areas, urge extension of facilities and utilities to keep pace with area growth, seek a system of adequate water drainage, foster a good neighbor policy to our fringe area by rendering constructive services.

They would review highway, traffic and safety problems, they would service the signs at the entrances to the city, co-operate with governmental agencies on proposed entrances and exits for Route 5 Freeway, unify street names and correct those mis-spelled—study downtown parking problems, sponsor safety programs and put up signs directing travelers to Campbell. They would instigate and promote with other civic groups a program to make Campbell more attractive, activating tree-planting, compile data on landscaping possibilities, conduct a sidewalk inspection annually and survey the refuse pick-up currently used and recommend improvement.

This is the avowed program of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce for 1954-55. Some of it is a function of the city government and has no other means for accomplishment. Some of it can and should be undertaken by hard and enthusiastic work. But to foster and protect home town enterprise is the important function of any Chamber of Commerce; without it, other efforts will lack sincerity of purpose, for home town enterprise is the very foundation of civic stability. Going after new industries and businesses is only important if those already established with heavy investment and regular payrolls are given the same confidence and encouragement by the civic agencies. These are the firms having the genuine interest in the welfare of the community.

PLAY BALL!

The Kiwanis Clubs about the county have undertaken the sale of script books for admissions to the Red Sox baseball games at San Jose. The books are offered at a bargain price, but more than that the Sox hold the league championship. It is important that attendance improves at the ball park this year if the franchise is to remain here. Baseball is still America's favorite sport and is the pastime keenly followed by the President, the Governors and busy executives everywhere. Governor Goodwin Knight only this week told Walter Mails from the San Francisco Seals that he not only would attend the opening game of the Pacific Coast League at San Francisco, but that he will visit every Coast League ball park in that state sometime during the season. Whatever the bewildering complexities the business and governmental work may present, baseball is still the same. The Red Sox games offer good returns for the money.

POST MORTEM

There is no such thing as the indispensable product that can coast along on its past laurels or on the effect of a deliberately planned and consistent advertising campaign. Once upon a time there were four name brand cigarettes commanding by far the major portion of the American purchasing power for cigarettes. Three of these kept on advertising. You know the Camels, Chesterfield and Lucky Strikes, but would you believe that Fatimas once outsold them... until they cut out advertising.

THE TRAFFIC SURVEY

A great deal of preparation has gone into the sixteen-hour street survey which gets under way early tomorrow. To some motorists it may seem elementary and unimportant. Some may not like being detained even for a moment.

But to the committee trying to establish certain averages, every question answered correctly, will be important. Through this survey the traffic committee may be able to define the trading area of Campbell, and the pattern for parking in the downtown area.

The city seeks your co-operation in this survey to expedite all of the necessary details. Hours of time are being given by volunteer workers at great savings to the city. Give a minute of your time for this worthy cause cheerfully.

WASHINGTON WEATHER WEARING

Congressman Gubser's Washington memo states that March came in like a lion and went out like a lamb, and now we're preparing for Summer, which comes in like a wet electric blanket with the thermostat stuck at 100 degrees and stays that way. Poor Charlie!

DIGGER INDIANS used to live near Campbell, but there are not many of them buried about here because they went over to Santa Clara for their mound building... by the Campbell Union Grammar school on Winchester Road is one of the old mission bells erected by the Mission Trails Association as a marker for the route once followed by the Mission padres and Fr. Junipera Serra from Carmel and Monterey to Watsonville. Santa Cruz, Los Gatos, Campbell and Santa Clara about 175 years ago... Judge Martin Walsh tells me there was a big settlement of Calaveras Indians near the present site of Milpitas and one of the favorite gathering places was the Santa Clara mission first erected on the banks of the Guadalupe river until washed away by flood waters, then erected near present Southern Pacific site where in 1860 it was destroyed by an earthquake and rebuilt on present site on the campus of the University of Santa Clara where in 1928 it was destroyed by fire, and finally rebuilt to its present structure... the floor of the Santa Clara valley was rich in grains, but the Digger Indians liked the country near Dry Creek where game and acorns were plentiful.

CAMPUS ECHO from the high school took on an April Fool tempo today like... George Miskulin is taking over Miss Dorothy Miller's sewing classes during her leave of absence while on a world tour... the Hot Rod Club bought a Greyhound bus and are planning to lower it, put on pipes and smit-ties... school officials have decided to have classes only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday with two-hour lunch period each school day... gum machines are being set up in all rooms except the dean's office, where a free coke machine will be available... Ken Wallace, movie actor and critic, was MC at the Academy Awards luncheon, best leading man award to Don Greening for his role in the "Man Who Came To Dinner," and Bev Fana as best leading lady, same play—and Ray Mossholder and Carolyn Tunstall for supporting roles, a special award to Don Davis for physical strength in carrying Jody Locher in one scene. RAIN drenched the blossoms, brought out the snails, the fish worms, the birds and the frogs, but otherwise did no damage, according to orchardists, some of the limbs and stalks already shedding the dampness and holding erect their shimmering sprays of blossoms.

Schoenberger's Shell Station Gets New Gas Storage Tanks

It looked like an archaeological expedition had arrived on Campbell avenue Monday morning as giant cranes and a crew of workmen began excavations at the Schoenberger Shell Service Station.

"They are only replacing the old 3500 gallon capacity gasoline tanks with three new ones totaling 10,000 gallons," manager Schoenberger explained.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Opinions expressed in this department do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of this newspaper.

March 29, 1954

Editor, Campbell Press.

The City of Campbell should certainly be complimented for the courtesy and alertness of one of its city firemen. I don't know his name, but he was young, well built and tall, and wore glasses. He either saw or came one minute later upon an accident at the corner of Hamilton and S. J.-L. G. Highway last Friday evening at 6:40 P. M. The accident involved three cars, one of which was driven by my father, who is in his very late sixties. Two cars collided and one was thrown against my father's car which was parked waiting to turn on to the S. J.-L. G. Highway. I was in another car less than 7 feet behind the cars involved. This fireman took a flare from his car, directed traffic very efficiently all during the investigation. It was necessary for my mother to phone for a tow truck and when she told him she wanted to cross the highway, he took her arm and escorted her across the highway, which she appreciated as she was very badly shaken from the impact of one car being thrown against hers. This young fireman continued to direct all traffic until the cars had been towed away and the glass and debris swept up.

When he saw traffic was returning to normal, he came over to the policeman who was investigating the accident and spoke to him a minute. We, then, asked him who he was and he just smiled and said a Campbell fireman, without giving his name. He has certainly left a good thought in the minds of several San Jose people and we did appreciate the kindness he showed to my mother.

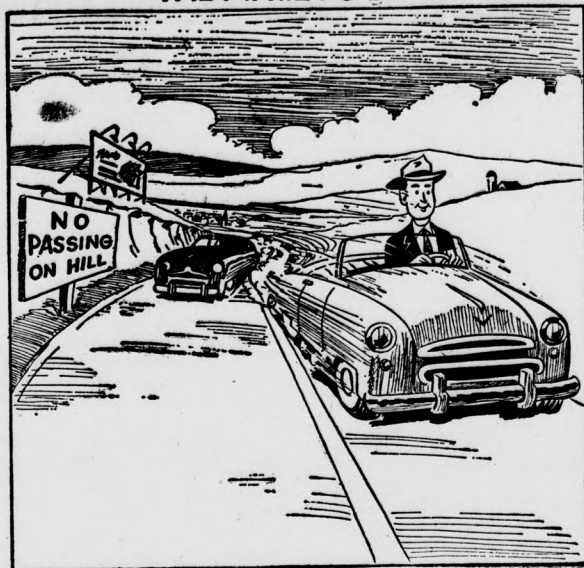

Sincerely yours
Mrs. DONALD C. McKENNA.

MEL STEIN TELLS OF TESTS FOR BIG LEAGUE ASPIRANTS

Mel Stein, Campbell High Baseball Coach, went into pro baseball in 1951, determined to discover whether he "had the goods" to play major or minor league ball. The pay is good when you rise above Class "C", and the goal worthwhile in prestige as well. Now, after three years time, Stein feels that he has not progressed sufficiently to warrant staying with this ambition as a life's goal. It is now his intent to play organized baseball mainly for recreation—as a sort of Summer vacation with pay.

In accordance with this objective, he'll be in Santa Maria over Easter vacation, in training with the new Salinas club of the California League. As of this writing, he's still considered their leading candidate at first base. But since he'll probably miss ten or more ball games before school is out on June 18th, he may find himself an outfielder (which he played last year in a Louisiana league) by midsummer. Stein is a local favorite and has been ever since training with the Red Sox at Palo Alto three Springs ago. Many Valley fans remember how he hit .340 in the California League that year before he was traded away to make room for Boston property.

Though Stein no longer pictures himself as a potential Yankee, he now has a younger brother, George, who is property of the New York club and now playing for a club in Birmingham, Alabama. And Stein's advice to boys considering professional baseball as a career is valuable, since the Campbell coach has rubbed elbows with all types of "will be's" and "has been's."

"The main point I'd like to emphasize about professional baseball is that there is more to the game than most young fellows seem to realize. Besides needing a variety of skills, a youthful baseballer must learn what to do in the many different situations which arise during games. To achieve proficiency, one must put in many, many hours of practice and study. There are thousands of boys in pro ball, but only those who work at the game full time will reach the top. Professional baseball is no place for one who has not learned to guide his behavior by what he knows is right. There are many in the game who conduct themselves on a low plane, and many youngsters entering the game are fooled into believing that the best way to get ahead is to follow the "off the field" habits of the "old pros." What the young fellows fail to recognize is that these old pros are washed up and are playing the game purely for the money and good times involved."

GUN COURSE CLASS TO MEET ON THURSDAYS

The Hunting Safety Class being conducted at Campbell High School by Vincent Diehl, in the adult education program will be held Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in room 60, instead of on Monday and Thursday evenings.

Kenneth Robinson, Adult education director, said a poll of those attending the class was taken at the last class meeting and members agreed to attend one night a week.

The course has been very well received, Robinson said, and there are students from the Westinghouse Gun Club in Sunnyvale, and other students from Saratoga and as far south as Gilroy.

Approximately 600 civil service employees are employed in administering and operating the State-owned port of San Francisco.

Student From Iraq Addresses Rotary At Monday Meet

Kamal Murad, University of Santa Clara Engineering Student, from Baghdad, Iraq, gave Campbell Rotarians an economical and political look at his native country, in his talk before the group.

Murad said primitive industry and farming methods combined with an unstable political situation makes for an uncertain future in Iraq today. In the northern part of the country, Turks, Russians, and Kurds are engaged in forestry work; the middle section of the country is devoted to farming, while in the south the major economic enterprises are date farming and fishing.

Landowners only farm about one-third of the available land, according to the visiting speaker, although the country has some economical renown for its cement, sugar, glass and soap manufacturing.

Rotarians, during the business portion of the meeting were urged to volunteer in the traffic survey to be held on Friday, April 2nd. Joaquin Payne was Rotary chairman for this week's meeting. The next meeting, according to president-elect L. W. Harmon, is a Pacific Gas and Electric Company film "Century of Light." Frank Accardi is chairman.

One Out Of Three High School Boys Out For Sports

George Miskulin, P. E. Coordinator at the high school, is proud of the fact that one out of every three Campbell Union High School boys is out for some Spring sport. "Over 300 boys are trying out for our varsity, frosh, or sophomore baseball nines, our A, B, C, or D track teams, our A and B swimming mer-men, our golf foursomes, or our tennis squad," he said, with some pride, the other day.

"After winning three championships already this year, we're bound to do all right in Spring sports too with this kind of a turnout!"

The local high school has been the talk of the Valley, athletically, for the past two seasons. "And yet no-one can accuse us of over-emphasis in sports (as the NEA heads did some Eastern schools recently)," CUHS's head P. E. man continued. "Here a boy must keep up with his studies to keep out for the team. We continually check up on the classwork of all our athletes. Whenever a teacher says that one of our boys is starting to slip, we check up on him academically with the same rigor we do physically." No high school in Northern California is maintaining higher scholastic standards, nor, at the same time, succeeding so well athletically. The local secondary school is just as interested in college entrance examinations as it is track records, love matches, or home runs.

Miss Bernice White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan White, became the bride of John J. Gillis in an afternoon ceremony, Sunday, March 28, with Rev. Ernest Tremayne officiating at the home of the bride's parents on White Oak Road.

The bride wore a traditional wedding gown of chiffon and lace paneling, styled with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and cathedral train as she approached the appointed archway, appropriately decorated with be-ribboned bells.

A tiara of seed pearls and lace held the finger-tip veil and she carried a nosegay of white carnations and bouvardia.

Mrs. Frances Polini, honor attendant, donned a formal length gown of orchid net over satin. Her bouquet was composed of orchid carnations and bouvardia.

Bernice and John cut a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom at the reception immediately following the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Gillis is a graduate of Orillia Collegiate Institute of Ontario, Canada, and the benedict, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gillis Sr., is a graduate of Campbell High School.

For her wedding trip to Yosemite, the bride chose a coat-dress of beige bengalene, with navy accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Upon their return, the couple will make their home in Los Gatos.

St. Lucy's School Dedicated Sunday By Bishop Donohoe

Over 700 parishioners of St. Lucy's Parish gathered Sunday to witness the dedication and official blessing of the parish school on Kennedy Avenue by the Most Reverend Hugh A. Donohoe, auxiliary bishop of San Francisco.

Two principal functions marked the dedication ceremonies.

The sacrament of baptism was administered by the bishop to 60 children and 21 adults at 3:30 p. m. followed by the dedication of the property in ceremonies from the Roman ritual. The latter consisted of the blessing of a cross later hung in the principal's office and the blessing and incensing of the building.

In further ceremonies on the school grounds, an official military color guard, a unit of the 49th M. P. Battalion, 49th Infantry, California National Guard, raised the school flag after it had been blessed by the bishop.

A spiritual bouquet was then presented to Bishop Donohoe by William Smith, member of St. Lucy's senior class.

Words of welcome and appreciation to those who participated in the building program were given by Rev. Dennis Kennelly, pastor.

The St. Lucy's building committee, architect Vincent Raney; builder Elmo Pardini; Sisters Mary Florence, Sister Julia Marie, and Sister Noreen from the convent of Notre Dame in Saratoga and parishioners as a whole were thanked for their work in connection with the school building.

Concluding the dedication ceremonies, Bishop Donohoe addressed the gathering on "Educating Catholic Children".

Visiting church dignitaries included The Most Reverend A. G. Cicognani, arch bishop of Lodi, Cicognani, apostolic delegate; Rev. John Healy, Willow Glen; Rev. Patrick O'Halloran, Tracy; Rev. John Foudy, assistant superintendent Catholic Schools; Rev. Thomas Collins, Lafayette; and Rev. Harold Ring, St. Joseph's Church.
